

Back to School August 29

The Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) will open for in-person learning on Monday, August 29, for the 2022-2023 academic year. Students, parents and legal guardians can check the website at pgcps.org for individual school start and end times, bus stop information, individual school supply lists and health forms for parents and providers.

Registration

To register, parents must provide a government-issued photo identification; an original birth certificate for the student, with a seal and the parents' names listed; and health documents, including immunization records and proof of residency.

Before and After Care

Vendor Managed Child Care Programs operate in school sites listed on the PGCPS website. Vendors assigned to each school determine the registration process and timelines. For more information, parents can sign up for school system alerts at pgcps.org or monitor the main website. Parents can also call 1-877-261-0060 to obtain assistance from LO-CATE: Child Care, a service that offers free individual counseling support to find licensed child care in Prince George's County.

Immunizations

Maryland state law "requires all students enrolled in pre-kindergarten through Grade 12 to receive age-appropriate immunizations," according to the PGCPS website. Contact the child's school or the Office of School Health at 301-749-4722 or email healthservices@pgcps.org for details.

Masks

Due to the highly contagious Covid-19 BA.5 variant, PGCPS has returned to a mandatory mask policy in all schools and facilities until further notice, as recommended by the Prince George's County Health Department. Mask policy is subject to change according to local and/or state health department guidance and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommendations.

Meals

Breakfast and lunch are offered in all schools. Meals are no cost to students who are eligible

Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Jumps Back into Full Swing

by Cathie Meetre

The reappearance of an almost-normal Labor Day Festival is a heartwarming step in the journey back from two weird years. This year's Festival re-establishes almost all the favorite traditions so, true to form, Friday evening sees the announcement of the 2022 Outstanding Citizen. Rumor has it that a generous-hearted city resident is being gently connived by a turncoat family member into visiting the Festival just in time for the announcement.

Friday Night Lights

The Festival opens Friday, September 2 at 6 p.m. with Bingo, the midway and food booths. Opening ceremonies take the

Kara Harris Illuminates Maryland's Historic Cookbooks at Museum Talk

by Letty Wilson Bonnell

A tea cup? A salt spoon? A wine glass?

These are just a few of the frustratingly unspecific cooking measures highlighted by Kara Harris in her virtual lecture, Exploring Maryland's Historic Cookbooks, at the Greenbelt Museum on Thursday night, July 21.

Introduced by Museum Director Megan Searing Young, Harris mentioned that she was excited when, at a recent visit to the Greenbelt Museum, she saw some books in their collection that she had been interested in for a long time. A particular treasure is a historic Maryland cookbook published by the Woman's Club of Greenbelt, probably compiled in the 1950s. Culinary historian and blogger Harris, a Beltsville native, has become well known in the state and nationally through her Old Line Plate blog (oldlineplate.com). On her site, she not only describes her deep dives into old Maryland cookbooks, but she also tests historic recipes and shares them online. Her source materials include old

Council Ponders Its Work Plan, Tends to Administrative Issues

by Matthew Arbach

The Greenbelt City Council addressed administrative issues at its August 10 meeting. Mayor Emmett Jordan initiated a debate on the possibility of moving the scheduling of future worksessions from the end of regular (often long) meetings to a worksession, feeling that council would have a fresher perspective. Council and staff were amenable (with one exception) to this suggestion, with the understanding that it would not be an official decision (which can be made only at a council meeting).

The consensus was that the end of the worksession would be best and limited to 10 to 15 minutes. This schedule would then be voted on as a consent item at the next meeting. This new approach will likely be voted on in September and judged for its effectiveness as time goes on, with Councilmember Ric Gordon advising a "case-by-case basis."

Councilmember Rodney Roberts was unreceptive to the suggestion, feeling that it violated council rules of procedure and lessened transparency with the

Chester Asks for a Retake

I am very pleased that my great friend and mail carrier, Cesar, got such a glowing article in the Greenbelt News Review. He deserves all the praise. I respectfully request a retake of the photo, however, as it did not display my best side.

Chester, the dog

Hail, Cesar!

How wonderful to see the article by Kyla Hanington in last week's News Review about my court's beloved mail carrier, Cesar!

His joyful spirit and caring and kindness are a delight.

Last year he asked me if I was having a big birthday when he was delivering so many cards addressed to me. I had to tell him that they were sympathy cards because my husband had passed away. His immediate response was something I will never forget. He told me that he was glad he knew Bill and that if I needed anything I should be sure to let him know. That meant so much to me.

My puppy is one of the dogs he warmly greets. He's been known to put down his bag and get down on the ground to pet and play with Buddy!

Thank you, dear Cesar, for your goodness and going above and beyond! You are like family to so many of us.

On Screen at Old Greenbelt Theatre

My Old School

In 1993, 16-year-old Brandon Lee enrolled at Bearsden Academy, a secondary school in a well-to-do suburb of Glasgow, Scotland. What followed over the next two years would become the stuff of legend. Brandon had been privately tutored in Canada while he accompanied his mother, an opera diva, on tour before her tragic death. The preternaturally bright student surprised teachers by blazing toward his goal of entering medical school, displaying a wealth of knowledge beyond his years. Brandon found friends despite his initial awkwardness, taking bullied students under his wing, introducing classmates to seminal retro bands and even starring in the school's production of South Pacific. But then his unbelievable secret was revealed. Filmmaker Jono McLeod returns to his old school for a nostalgic look at the strange but true story of his former classmate, Brandon Lee. Utilizing playful, period-specific animation, a pitch-perfect soundtrack, the memories of students and teachers and the talents of Alan Cumming to bring the tale to life, My Old School offers more than one surprise along the way.

Marcel the Shell with Shoes On

Marcel is an adorable 1-inch-tall shell who ekes out a colorful existence with his grandmother Connie and their pet lint, Alan. Once part of a sprawling community of shells, they now live alone as the sole survivors of a mysterious tragedy. But when a documentary filmmaker discovers them amongst the clutter of his Airbnb, the short film he posts online brings Marcel millions of passionate fans, as well as unprecedented dangers and a new hope at finding his long-lost family. A beloved character gets his big-screen debut in this hilarious and heartwarming story about finding connection in the smallest corners. A mockumentary directed by Dean Fleischer, with a screenplay by Marcel-creators Jenny Slate and Nick Paley.

Community Events

Gala Celebrates Community Meals

On Thursday, September 1, Community Meals (a project of the College Park – Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church Cooperative Parish) will host a gala at the Old Greenbelt Theatre. The gala celebrates more than a year and a half of the Community Meals project which provides healthy, delicious meals to the local community. The program is modeled after Tom’s or Bombas, in that for every meal reserved, a meal is donated to a neighbor in need. The event will feature food (starting at 6 p.m.), awards and recognitions, and a highly reviewed Bollywood film, Three Idiots, starting around 7 p.m.

Tickets are free for regular donors, who must register ahead for a ticket. There is a fee for non-donors. Email Amy Caruso at amybcaruso@gmail.com or call 301-345-1010 for tickets.

StrongerMemory Program Has Waitlist

The City of Greenbelt’s GAIL Program and Dementia Friendly America – Northern Prince George’s County Sector, in partnership with Goodwin House Inc., a senior living and health-care services organization located in Northern Virginia – will offer an innovative brain health program for older adults. The September through December program listed in last week’s News Review is now full; see information below to be added to the waitlist.

The StrongerMemory program runs for 12 weeks, with one 30-minute check-in at 10 to 10:30 a.m. each Thursday from September 15 to December 8 in the Community Center senior classroom. To be added to the waitlist in case places open or an additional program is added, contact Sharon Johnson at 240-542-2029 or sjohnson@greenbeltnmd.gov.

Homecoming at Community Church

Greenbelt Community Church invites former members and friends in the community for worship and a special reception on September 11 for Homecoming Sunday.

Interim Pastor Rev. Clara Young and Pastor Emeritus Rev. Daniel Hamlin will give a dialogue sermon on the Gifts of the Spirit. Those who have been members of the church for 40 or more years will be recognized at this event.

Worship service begins at 10:15 a.m. Masks are recommended, but are optional and will be available at the door.

Those unable to attend in person can join the Homecoming Service via Zoom. Call the church office at 301-474-6171 or email office@greenbeltucc.org to get the Zoom link.

Talk on Greenbelt’s “Light Bucket”

On Thursday, August 25 at 7:30 p.m., the Astronomical Society of Greenbelt (ASG) welcomes all to hear Conrad Terrill of the society speak on Greenbelt’s Light Bucket (ASG’s telescope in the City of Greenbelt Observatory). His talk will cover upgrades over the past few years, plus a brief pictorial history of astronomy in Greenbelt and of the installation of the Observatory.

The talk will take place in Room 114 of the Community Center and will also be available on Zoom; the link will be posted on the events page of greenbeltastro.org a few days before the event. All are welcome, whether members of ASG or not. There is no charge.

Volunteer and Learn Composting Workday

On Saturday, August 27, starting at 9 a.m., join other volunteers in an outdoor workday at the three-bin hot-composting station behind Roosevelt Center, alongside the Greenbelt Aquatic & Fitness Center. Email NewDealWigglers@gmail.com with questions.

Alert for Bus Riders

Until further notice, Greenbelters planning to take the G12 bus to the Luminis Health Doctors Community Medical Center should know that buses are not regularly entering the medical center campus and stopping at the bus stop next to the Professional Building. To be let off the bus at a nearby stop on Hanover Parkway or Princess Garden Parkway, riders should be sure to request a stop when the driver announces the hospital stop rather than assuming that all buses will enter and stop on the campus. This change is presumably associated with construction activities on the campus, and may also apply to TheBus Route 16.

Star Party Saturday

The Astronomical Society of Greenbelt will host an in-person and Zoom star party, free and open to the public, on Saturday evening, August 27, at the City Observatory, located at Northway Fields. Attendees can expect to see galaxies, nebulae and star clusters currently high in the sky, viewed through the Observatory telescope and astronomical camera. All are welcome, and visitors are encouraged to set up their own telescopes on the hilltop. Zoom details may be found on the Events calendar at greenbeltastro.org a few days prior.

Observing will begin at 9 p.m. and continue for two hours. Attendees are asked to park in the ballfield lot, not up on the hill, unless bringing a telescope. The star party will be canceled without notice if it is hopelessly cloudy.

Recreation Fall Activity Guide Available Online

The Greenbelt Recreation Fall Activity Guide and registration information are now available at greenbeltnmd.gov/recreation.

Registration is ongoing for Greenbelt residents and starts at 10 a.m. on Monday, August 29 for nonresidents. Classes begin during and after the week of September 12. For more information, call 301-397-2208.

Art & Photo Shows: Digital and In Person

This year, the Labor Day Festival Art Show and Photo Show will take a hybrid format. Photos and artwork must be submitted digitally, but participants are encouraged to drop off the pieces they submitted online to the Community Center for public display. The deadline for digital submissions of artwork or photos is Friday, August 26.

The online submission form for the Art Show can be found at greenbeltlaborday.com/events-and-activities/art-show. For questions or help with submitting pictures of artwork online, email laborday.artshow@gmail.com.

For questions or submission assistance, email laborday\_photoshow@yahoo.com.

After online submissions close, judging will take place virtually. Show entrants will be contacted with the date and time to stop by the Community Center with the winning artwork and photos for display at the in-person Art Show and Photo Show.

As the Worm Turns Tour at the Festival

On Saturday, September 3, Information Day at the Labor Day Festival, meet at 11 a.m. at the Green Team table to join the As the Worm Turns Tour of Roosevelt Center’s composting operations. To show how vermicompost (worm castings) are made, the tour will visit the red wiggler worms that live in their “worm condos” on the loading dock of the New Deal Café. Learn what they eat, how they stay cool and why their supercharged vermicompost is so highly prized. The tour will also visit the hot compost station alongside the Aquatic Center, where food waste hauled from the Co-op Supermarket undergoes the hot-composting process. Last year this operation kept over 4,000 pounds of food waste from the landfill. Any plain compost that’s not consumed by the red wigglers is distributed to community gardeners and the Three Sisters Gardens. Donations in exchange for quart bags – or gallon buckets – of the prized vermicompost go to the New Deal Café.

Girl Scouts Host Festival Pet Show

On Saturday, September 3, Girl Scout Troop 23007 will be sponsoring the Labor Day Festival Children and Teen Pet Show on the Community Center lawn. The event will take place rain or shine. Registration opens at 9:30 a.m.; judging and awards begin at 10 a.m.

All types and sizes of pets are welcome. Which pet will win as Most Cuddly? Or Most Colorful? Maybe Most Energetic? Join in to see that special pet get the recognition it deserves.

Also, stop by to learn more about the Girl Scouts. For more information, email Holly Wheeler at GSTroop23007@gmail.com.

Now, In-Person Board Games

On Friday, August 26 (and every fourth Friday) join fellow gamers in Community Center Room 114 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Bring a game, if preferred; plenty will be available. Also, there will be a bonus session during the Labor Day Festival, Sunday, September 4, 1 to 4 p.m. in Community Center Room 103. Sponsored by Greenbelt Unplugged. In Memoriam

Veronica Hughes

by Rick Ransom

Veronica Hughes, 70, died on August 9. She was the wife of the late Jim Hughes, mother of Jim, Jr. (deceased) and George, and sister-in-law to Edward Hughes and his wife Judy. Her health had been in decline for several years and had caused her to lose part of a leg so that she spent her last months in a wheelchair.

Veronica graduated from High Point High School after growing up in Beltsville. She worked for 30 years at UPS before retiring. She met Jim at a Legion softball game. He had joined the Greenbelt Legion upon his return from Vietnam. Veronica joined the Post's Ladies Auxiliary and was noted for being at the core of many of their fundraising and other activities. After Jim's death in 2015, her activities declined as did her attendance at the Legion. Her health played a role as well.

Her sister-in-law Judy noted that she was devoted to Jim and their two sons and that she loved the beach. She noted that Veronica, of course, was devastated at the loss of her elder son in an auto accident. Her friend and Auxiliary co-member Sandi Dutton noted that she was the "neighborhood mom" for many of their sons' friends, the person who invited them in and hosted many a meal or snack.

I came to know Veronica through my own Legion membership and attendance. She was supportive of my wife and me when my son died not long after Veronica's. She was also a fan of my performances (imagine that!). Occasionally someone would play Piano Man on the jukebox in the back bar and I would sing along. Veronica would holler out for everyone to be quiet as I was singing.

Despite my embarrassment, it was a nice compliment.

You always knew Veronica was in the house. She was not a quiet person, at least not at the Legion. She had a zest for life and was quick to point out a wrong, even if you disagreed. Current Legion Commander Greg Giglotti remarked that she was always nice to him. His wife Kathy and I agreed that her death was a kind of mercy given the poor state of her health.

I will remember her good heart and her personal thoughtfulness and I will think of her whenever the song Piano Man is within earshot.

GCF Announces Two Spring 2022 Grant Awards

by Kevin W. Parker

The board of the Greenbelt Community Foundation (GCF) approved two grant applications for the spring 2022 cycle. The Homegrown Heroes Club at Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) received $2,300 to purchase an outdoor greenhouse. This will allow students to continue learning and practicing horticulture during non-school hours and also over the summer. "By having an outdoor greenhouse, the students would have an easily accessible place to care for and harvest their plants during the summer months," the club noted on its grant application. The ERHS PTSA is the fiscal sponsor.

Friends of New Deal Café Arts (FONDCA) received $1,970 to put on an Ekphrastic Fantastic Art Show. Ekphrasis is a noun defined as, "A literary description of or commentary on a visual work of art," according to Merriam-Webster. FONDCA wrote: "This show will bring together two forms of art: visual art and poetry. It will allow poets to write a poem in response to a piece of visual art, and it will allow visual artists to create a piece in response to a poem." The resulting works will be displayed at the Café, which will host a reception for the show.

GCF seeks to support a thriving, engaged community that is socially responsible and environmentally conscious and that supports education, the arts and sciences. GCF does this by helping to fund community projects that build upon the ideals of collaboration, cooperation and engagement through the participation of individuals and organizations. Proposals are reviewed twice yearly, although GCF welcomes grant applications at any time. The next deadline, for the fall 2022 cycle, is October 15. For more information or to make a donation, visit the website at greenbeltfoundation.org.

Kevin W. Parker is chair of the Greenbelt Community Foundation communications committee.

Our sympathies to the family and friends of Veronica Hughes. She was active in the Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion, Greenbelt Post 136.

Congratulations to Shlagel Farms who have been awarded the Farm Family of the Year by the Charles County Farm Bureau. Shlagel Farms is one of the original farm families of the Greenbelt Farmers Market and has sold their produce in every Sunday market since 2009.

A Bit More Peace Through Meditation

In a world where many often attempt to do more, do it better and do it more quickly, the Mishkan Torah Sisterhood has quietly offered summer guided-meditation classes to Greenbelters and non-Greenbelters for the past seven years. Meditation this year is offered via Zoom.

The remaining session is from 3:45 to 4:45 p.m. on Monday, August 29.

All attendees have expressed a quieting of their bodies, minds and spirits, a deepening of inner stillness and a better ability to reconnect with themselves. They have described feeling more peaceful, serene, relaxed, mindful and present, both during and between classes.

Theology of the Unitarian Universalist Principles

Rev. Ann Kadlecsek with Worship Associate Polly Pettit

Our Eight Principles are not creed, or a statement of belief. They are much more a statement of how we aspire to be with one another and in the world. And yet, they do reflect an underlying theology. In this service, we'll look at that theology, and what it might offer to each of us and this community. And a very special welcome to Davies Unitarian Universalist Congregation!

Peripatetic Red Dahlias Flower, Take Root in Greenbelt Garden

by Amy Hansen

These dahlias move around a lot.

Before Greenbelters Norma and Sven Allenbach-Schmidt bought a house on Maplewood Court, in fact before Norma was even born, the deep red dahlias that are currently in her yard had already lived full lives.

The multiple-bloom flowers started in Buffalo, N.Y., sometime in the late 1800s.

At that point, the flowers belonged to Norma Schmidt’s ancestors, who lived on a family farm that eventually was sold and became a part of the State University of New York at Buffalo campus.

As gardeners know, overwintering plants takes some work. Every year, someone in the family would wait until the first frost and then cut off the dead foliage and dig up the root clusters. The plants then waited out the winter in a cool, but not frozen place. The bulbs were passed along to Norma’s aunt and eventually her cousins, who sent them on to her parents, and finally to her.

“I like the family heritage,” Norma said, explaining why she works with these plants year after year. “And I really like the red color.”

She also likes to garden. Her house has many other blooms, but dahlias are the constants since 1998, when she and her husband moved in.

“Many of my family and friends now have some of these dahlia roots and grow them each year. The dahlias came to Maryland with me and are thriving here!”

Growing Tips

Planting

- Full sun to partial shade
- For fertilizer, a mix of vegetative compost with a little bone-meal
- Shallow depression for each root clump
- If the root clump has a little red sprout, try to leave the sprout near or peeking above the surface of the soil.
- Cover with about two inches of soil and water well.

Growing Season

- Water if there is a long dry spell.
- If the main stem grows taller than three feet, support may be needed to keep it upright.
- Great for cut flowers for bouquets
- Deadheading improves appearance of plants.
- Avoid transplanting – this really sets them back.

- During the very hot mid-summer, the dahlias may “sleep” for a while, then start growing again when the temperature cools off with highs in the 80s.

End of Season

- The root clumps need to be removed from the soil. Wait for the first frost, which will kill the foliage and turn it black.
- If there has not yet been a frost by November, dig up the roots that month. Take care not to slice a root. Cut off the dead foliage.
- Spread the root clumps out on newspapers in a dry location for about two weeks to thoroughly dry out.
- Store the root clumps in a container that “breathes” – a cardboard box is fine – in a cool dry location such as a basement, where the temperature will stay above freezing.

favorite Motown, rock’n’roll and blues.

This week’s issue of the News Review contains the Festival pull-out schedule, cunningly contrived as a handy booklet (with a bit of scissoring and folding). The pullout includes information on the food booths – which range from Astronomical Society Fries, through Eleanor and Franklin Funnel Cakes, all the way to Sweet Potato Praline Cheesecake by the Greenbelt Community Animal Response Team and Chili Nachos from Babe Ruth Baseball – and much more in between. Plan the weekend’s menu accordingly.

A class act is the Greenbelt Elementary PTA book sale. Despite longstanding rumors that print is dead, the book sale is a big draw for the common or garden variety Greenbelt bookworm. Head there early and often as new layers of books are revealed.

Friday evening also offers the opportunity for a little exercise, with the adult table tennis tournament ping-ponging off at 6 p.m. in the Youth Center.

Events on Saturday

The fun starts early on Saturday, with Greenbelt Museum walking tours at 9 a.m. The mid-way opens at 11 a.m. and is in full swing until 10 p.m. All-you-can-ride tickets are available at the Festival, and discount vouchers are available at the Co-op through Wednesday, August 31 – ask at any register. Lots of food and drink choices will slake thirst and fill tummies.

And, speaking of worms, take in As the Worm Turns to view composting activities – start at the Green Team Table at 11 a.m.

The ever-popular children and teens Pet Show has registration at 9:30 a.m. on the Community Center lawn. Perhaps Fido has what it takes to be this year’s Most Enthusiastic Tail Wagger – every pet’s a winner at this show.

Fun events on Braden Field for the small fry start at 10 a.m. and include a water balloon toss, three-legged race and a diaper derby. Not to mention a pie-eating contest (11:30 a.m.) and a scavenger hunt (1 p.m.). For more sedate amusement, the art and photo shows are open from 1 to 6 p.m. in the Community Center gym. Rolling Shorts are featured free in the Old Greenbelt Theatre from noon to 3 p.m.

Information Day

Also on Saturday, local organizations, including Greenbelt’s favorite newspaper, occupy Roosevelt Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Get information on clubs, volunteer organizations and city services.

Saturday Music

Katy Gaughan’s Drumming for Wellness percussively kicks off Saturday’s rhythmic offerings at the stage from noon to 1:30 p.m. Then three bands are on the schedule. Sol y Rumba delivers a Latin flavor from 3 to 4:30 p.m. and Sista Pat’s eclectic mix of reggae, Motown, blues and Afrobeat follows from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Closing the music for the day is The Nowhere Men who play the greatest hits of the 60s and 70s – with dance-making tunes from the Four Tops, Chicago and Earth, Wind & Fire – from 8 to 11 p.m.

Next week’s newspaper will give the rundown for Sunday and Monday activities.

There’s something for everyone in this year’s Festival.

Always remember Greenbelt is Great.

public, citing that “a council decision is a council decision,” regardless of the setting.

Stakeholders

Another issue was a revised list of stakeholders developed by Councilmember Judith Davis. In an effort to better organize this now-lengthy list, Davis split the stakeholders into categories based on their need for meeting frequency. Those that should meet annually included the city’s homeowners associations and co-operative owners associations and other residential representatives, advisory board chairs, county council and at-large members, school board members and the State Highway Administration.

For meeting biannually, the list included Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, Beltway Plaza, Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt Park and the National Park Service, Greenway Center, religious and spiritual organizations, Roosevelt Center merchants and the newly-formed Greenbelt Business Alliance.

Those to meet as needed included apartment complexes, Comcast and Verizon, Greenbelt office parks, Greenbelt watershed groups, hotels, Pepco and WSSC, Prince George’s County Economic Development Corporation, the Roosevelt Center owner, University of Maryland, WMATA, and the County Department of Public Works and Transportation. Newly elected and appointed officials, like the county executive, school board CEO and state’s attorney, were, by the meeting’s close, judged most effectively placed in the brief presentation section of regular meetings.

Council was very receptive to this new organization of stakeholders, with Davis expressing that it will provide more time for council to focus on other pressing issues, like police reform. Jordan and resident Molly Lester hoped for more meetings with county and state officials.

Work Plan

Derived from a council retreat held last February, the work plan lays out a series of goals that Jordan said would set “our plan as a group,” making council’s efforts more productive and fostering “support for one another.” The city’s financial consultant, Raftelis, was instrumental in collecting input from council and developing what Jordan called a working document. The major outcome areas were: enhancing the sense of community; ensuring sustainable economic development; improving transportation opportunities; improving and enhancing public safety; promoting quality of life, health and well-being for all residents; maintaining and investing in infrastructure; and supporting equity and inclusion within Greenbelt.

Council used the 2021 city council work plan as a springboard. Many of its outcome areas are still in progress, such as the Greenbelt Road streetscape, opposition to the SC Maglev, saving the Forest Preserve, acquiring the Armory, recreation amenities for Greenbelt West and Covid-19 relief.

The work plan lays out in detail what success looks like for each of its outcome areas, alongside newly phrased, proposed success statements. There is also a list of council top priorities (including staff morale, focus on equity and inclusion, and increasing the tree canopy) and other priorities (such as addressing stormwater issues and economic development). The plan ends with next steps, the main one being a staff review of this report leading to later council adoption, with Jordan calling the current document an important step.

Office Space

Interim City Manager Timothy George said that the office space reallocation study should be available in the next couple of weeks, with recommendations available for council review. He also said that staff could create a request for proposals in order to obtain a consultant to aid in developing a new community visioning study, the last one being done 10 years ago. The recent American Rescue Plan Act surveys would be used as the framework, since much valuable community input was collected.

Resident Bob Rand hoped for the creation of both an Equity, Diversity and Inclusion, and a Health and Wellbeing Advisory Board for the city. City Clerk Bonita Anderson said that the city’s Board of Elections will meet again in September to discuss both the 2021 and upcoming 2023 city elections.

handwritten recipes, cookbooks and recipes from newspapers she has discovered in libraries and archives across the country. Along the way, she explores social history through documented accounts of many of the recipe authors. “Even what people want to project with these recipes can be interesting – their wealth, their thrift, their skill,” said Harris.

She began her lecture by noting that, although cookbooks and recipes have been around for centuries, there was a boom in published cookbooks in the 1800s. Social changes, an interest in domestic science and family nutrition were likely all drivers of this trend. An important landmark of this era was the publication in 1896 of Fannie Farmer’s The Boston Cooking-School Book. In her recipes, Farmer first popularized the idea of using standardized measurements – from the rather vague “tea cup” to a measuring cup that equals 8 ounces, for instance. Harris pointed out that publishing cookbooks was also simply “a neat thing to do”: “Think about social media showing off pictures of what we eat,” she said. “That’s what a lot of these books were like: hundreds, sometimes thousands of recipes.” “I also love community cookbooks. They all have their own personalities; people would add their own recipes in the margin. Every church cookbook is a historical document full of names, people who have backstories and recipes that reflect changing times. The women who produced community cookbooks were very marketing savvy,” Harris pointed out. “They sold ads to local businesses and they also incorporated new ingredients – essentially, product placement.” For instance, baking powder was a revolutionary new ingredient in the 1800s, “and people had to learn how to use it.”

“The advertisements in some of the Maryland cookbooks are sometimes the most interesting part. Some local books have a lot of ads that demonstrate a whole neighborhood’s worth of local businesses at the time the cookbook was printed,” explained Harris. “It’s like a phone book – you get a window into what kind[s] of goods were available or how or why they are being advertised in the first place.” For example, ads for grocers indicate where women might shop or ads for appliances show what would be cutting-edge kitchen equipment at the time.

At the end of her lecture, Harris invited the audience to send her their recipes to share on her blog and to explore her database of more than 50,000 recipes that she has digitized from various sources. “If you are a cook who improvises, how do you write down that process? By writing down [your recipe] you’re deciding the one way, the best version of your recipe,” she said. “Who knows? Maybe one day your vision could become the only authentic way to make that dish.”

P.G. Raiders Win Championship
In Regional Adult Baseball League

by Patrick Gleason

As the pink and blue post-sunset hues settled in an early August evening sky, the members of the P.G. Raiders exhaled and exulted after a closely contested 5-4 championship-clinching victory. The Raiders compete in the 18-and-up American Division of the DCMSBL, the largest adult amateur baseball league in the D.C. metro area. The one-run victory at Springfield's John Lewis High School on August 7 followed a 4-0 shutout in game one of the best-of-three championship series against the Owls, a team based out of Northern Virginia.

The Raiders, who have competed in the league since 2015, sport a roster of local baseball talent, including 12 Eleanor Roosevelt High School baseball alumni, along with other players who competed in the Prince George's Babe Ruth Baseball League while younger. After several years of establishing a footing in the league, the Raiders' 2021 campaign ended with an ascent toward the top of the regular season standings before a disappointing playoff loss. With continuity at the team's core, the 2022 squad went 3-0 on its playoff run to the championship.

After an 11-5 first-round victory over the Golden Islands, the Raiders rolled to a convincing game one victory behind a strong, complete game outing on the mound from Micah Headd, a 2013 Bishop McNamara graduate who has returned to help coach at his alma mater. Additionally, 2021 Roosevelt graduate Matthew Baravechia used his speed to benefit the Raiders in all phases of the game. Baravechia's speed earned the Raiders a key insurance run, but his quickness in the outfield helped preserve the shutout as he produced two double plays from left field. The game's emotional climax came as Baravechia launched a perfect throw to home after catching a fly ball with one out. The Owls' fastest runner tagged from third but couldn't beat the placement of Baravechia's throw. With that momentum, the Raiders entered game two poised for a championship.

Roosevelt 2020 alums Brian Bailey, Jr., and Wesley Shoemaker continued to tame the Owls' offense with strong pitching performances, while the Raider offense produced timely hits, never trailing in the championship-clinching victory – sealed by infielder Dylan Knott's two-RBI single to give the Raiders the insurance runs they needed in the tense final innings. The final out landed in Baravechia's glove and the Raiders basked in a championship – and the appropriately sweet cotton-candy colors of mid-summer twilight.

The P.G. Raiders hoist their championship trophy.

P.G. Raiders Championship Team: Wesley Shoemaker (ERHS 2020), Micah Headd (Bishop McNamara, 2013), Brian Bailey, Jr. (ERHS 2020), Evan Wasniewski, Robert Turner (ERHS 2016), Toney Delaney (C.H. Flowers, 2017), Matt Cherneskey (ERHS 2011), Matthew Baravechia (ERHS 2021), Dylan Knott, Patrick Gleason (ERHS 2008), Solomon Douglas (ERHS 2019). # It's Back-to-School Time!

Franklin Park Serves the Community with 3rd Annual Back-to-School Pep Rally

Franklin Park apartments, along with Impact Fellowship, CCI Health Centers, and RUAK (Random Unselfish Acts of Kindness), sponsored Franklin Park's third Annual Back-to-School pep rally on Friday, August 19. The goal of the event was to create a venue for students and parents to get excited about the coming school year as well as provide information about the resources in the community. The organizers set up stations at which they gave away supplies, clothing, books and information about the services that they provide. We also had art and sand activities for the kids to enjoy.

The volunteer team, made up of Franklin Park resident Lois Browne, Officer Torres and Officer Raki from the Greenbelt Police Community Action Team, and the Franklin Park team, issued over 200 backpacks with supplies and gave away other school supplies to an additional 300 residents. Also, the team raffled an Apple iPad tablet, two Chromebooks and two sets of headphones. The Franklin Park team expressed their gratitude to everyone involved, from planners to volunteers to Greenbelt Mayor Emmett Jordan and councilmember and Franklin Park resident Ric Gordon who participated, and to everyone else who helped make the event a great success.

Franklin Park wishes all students a successful school year!

Dear Festival-Visitor:

Welcome to the 68th Annual Greenbelt Labor Day Festival! The City of Greenbelt is honored to host this unique community celebration, which is the largest event of its kind in the State of Maryland and provides so much enjoyment to all its citizens. Many family and friend reunions occur during this special weekend. The festival also provides a great opportunity for many of our City's non-profit, service and religious organizations to participate and make themselves known to our residents and visitors.

This festival is organized and conducted by an independent volunteer group, the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee. These generous and dedicated citizens have worked long hours over the past year to ensure that we all have a wonderful time. We are grateful for their efforts and those of all the other community volunteers and City employees who make this event possible.

We hope you enjoy this weekend's festivities. Plan to come all four days and take full advantage of the wide range of activities being offered, from the Opening Ceremony and Concert on Friday evening to the Labor Day Parade on Monday.
